and drys both praised and denounced the suggestion. In the governor's meeting the notably dry executives sought to have it indorsed as a move toward greater co-operation of the states with the federal government in fighting the demon rum; and the drys, led by Covernor Ritchie of Maryland, railled to prevent such indorsement. Senator Carnway of Arkansas said in Washington that Mr. Wickersham's letter was the "worst blow" ever leveled at prohibition, branding the Volstend act as upenforceable and lending encouragement to the eriminal world, and he insisted that Mr. Wickershum should resign from the chairmanship of the commission. Wet leaders generally agreed with Caraway that the letter was an admission that the dry law could not be enforced, and consequently chuckled contentedly. But representatives of the W. C. T. U. and other dry organizations took the view that it was really a call to duty on the part of such states as have been remiss in tiding in the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment. Among the week's developments was a statement from Probibition Commissloner floran that he would issue to all probibition administrators a drastic order barring the employment of armed volunteers in liquor raids conducted by federal agents. This is a result of the killing of two Oklahoma farmers allegedly by a volunteer ald of a dry agent.

Quaint Old Customs at

Magyar Wedding Feast Marriage is a serious affair for boy and girl of the Magyar people, writes a correspondent in the London Telegraph. It is the most important event in the pensants' life. For the girl it is the beginning of her home and family, a comparatively independent status, to the boy the initiation into the council of the men of the clan.

Qualit customs mark courtship and marriage. No rings are given or exchanged on hetrothal, but generally handkerchiefs. In some parts of the country the boy proudly wears the betrothal handkerchief on the sleeve, while the girl places a sugar-loaf in the window of her house to tell every passer-by of the event. The wedding day is a village feast provided by the futher of the bride, but the best men Issue the invitations personally, the first person invited being, strangely enough, the bride's father. Perhaps a game of stealing the bride will be enacted, or the best men will lead the groom bearing the banner presented to him by the bride, and call on her father to deliver his daughter, who is referred to in flowery language, to this "good Christian young man."

After the reremony comes the feast, and then dancing, for no Magour festival would be complete with to any young man who approaches much—so when the bride is tired Hayms and Ethel M. Mission. chairs are placed in the middle of the floor for her and her "maids."

Purchase of Alaska The United States paid Russin $7,-200,000 for Alaska. There have been rumors for years that part of this money was intended as reimbursement for a naval demonstration by Russia in behalf of the United States during the Civil war at a time when France and Great Britain were showing friendliness to the Confederacy. The State department informs us that an exhaustive search through the department archives by several students rereals to evidence to that effect. The transaction was regular in every way. That the United States may have been more generous because of Ru-la's friendliness during the Civil war is not Improbable, because Russla attached little importance to Alaska and the United States was bard up for money at the time.-Pathander Maga-

Dust Now Recognized as Powerful Explosive

It is more or less generally well known that all dost accumulations represent a menace of no mean proportions. Dust is explosive and many mills were wrecked by this misterious power before the real cause was understood. In a mine, for instance, the explosion taking place in one chamber was carried to the next and so on Cards of Thanks, 75c. Resolutions of until the explosive force swept through the entire mine and the workings were wrecked completely. It is only within a comparatively few years that It was ascertained that this march of destruction was conducted through the subterranean passages by the accumu fation of dust on the walls and in the crevices. Now this is avoided by a conting which is sprayed on and which prevents the dust thus treated from exploding. in the case of grain mills the damage done by these mysterious bursts was particularly severe and the government agencies have been giving considerable attention to the study of these mysterious blusts. In the course of some experiments it was found posalbie to drive an automobile engine by the use of finely powdered corn dust. -Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Importat German dag of war New from the top of the tallest palm. I was the vicerny, by chance and not by desire, of course, and my sallors and our prisoners were my subjects. The only visiting nationals from elsewhere were the three Kanakas, the turtle catchers. "The White King of the Society Isle of Mopelin," my more facetlously called me. One of the Yankee cap tains put it differently. He called me "the Sen Devil King of the South Sens." And he caustically described our lovely isle as "a poisoned paradise." Everybody was good humored.

But our little South Sen colony passed its first nights unensity. For sleeping places, we slung hammocks between the palms. At intervals, a coconut would fall from a height of fifty or sixty feet and go whizzing close by a man's head. While our fellow countrymen back in the cities nlong the Ithine were complaining about the night raids of the French and British bombing squadrons, we had our bombling problem also. It didn't make much difference whether encount or a fulling bomb The result was all the same. After one whizzed by your ear, you would very likely go down to the open beach to quiet your nerves. Then It you tried to sleep there, the land crabs would soon convince you that the beach was no place for a weary war veteran either Patrols of fighting murine crabs would ruld that beach every night. After be ing chased out by the crabs, you would go back to your hammock and lle awake wondering when the next nerial coconut bombardment would commence. So life during those first days on our trople isle was not all skittles and heer or orchids and coco nut milk. You can bet we worked hard getting up buts! Luckly, there were no casualties from either embs or coconuts.

We cleared a targe space for our village, and built huts out of timbers, of the ship. The wave swung her | salleloth, and palm leaves. The first one up was a queer-looking thing, but our architecture improved with practice. Our prisoners, who were all Americans, belped us a great deal. They understood the art of pliching tents. They built a special town for themselves, and gave the streets such names as Broadway, State street, Pennsylvania avenue, and the Bowery. In time we contrived to arrange quite decent dwelling places. Of course, we also installed our wireless set ashare In order to keep in touch with possing ships and events imppening out on this side of the world. Nor did we neglect to take ashore a heavy account ed arms and monuntiflan, including rides. Luger platels, hand greendes. and denamite. In short, we test a perfect little town with everything ex cept a calaboose. Some of our used who tail committe tendencles con structed "country homes" for them selves a few hundred Jurds away in the lingle. Then we named the place Seemberburg Sea Eagle Town

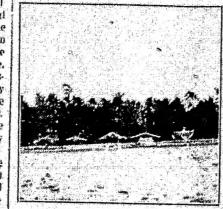

There were gulls' eggs everywhere along the share, but the lifted were brooding now and most of the vanwe collected had half-formed title gulls in them. We got around this to elearing a large section of beach at 1 throwing the old eggs into the ingui-Then the gulls florked back and this more eggs, and thus a supply of frest rugs was assured.

There was plents of pipe tobacco, and Doctor Pietsch had talam care to rescue from the wrock a store of his endless et gara. The wind blow, the stars shone and the orchestra alternately played German classles from the operas and American rug-time melodies. Ah, res this last bit of the once glorious over seas German empire wasn't such a bad little paradise at all. We enstaways out there in the solitude of the South Sons felt as though we were the only people left in the world, like Noah and his family on Mount Ararat.

But after about three weeks of this Garden of Eden without an Evo exist ency, the monotony of it began to get on our nerves. Of course, there was the "eife" of the officer of the . . but sie was far too busy to be fater ested in the rest of us. We hadn't been sent out to colonize the South See and take life easy. New Maine Auto Liability Law Now in Effect!

(Quoted from Portland Evening News, July 10, 1929)

"As interpreted by State Insurance Commissioner Wilbur D. Spencer, the new motor vehicle operator's liability law . . . means that either the driver of a car must have property or access to means to pay all judgments found against him for the offenses prescribed or HE MUST INSURE HIS LIABILI-TY BEFORE AN ACCIDENT, IN SOME LICENSED INSURANCE COM-PANY IN THIS STATE. IF HE DOES NOT DO THIS, HIS PRIVILEGE OF LICENSE WILL BE IN JEOPARDY AND BY LAW MUST BE FOR-FEITED, IN CASE HE IS RESPONSIBLE FOR INJURY TO OTHERS, UNTIL HE CAN EARN THE AMOUNT NECESSARY TO SATISFY THE JUDGMENT AND COSTS. THIS MEANS THAT IN SOME CASES OPER-ATORS WILL NEVER RECOVER THEIR LICENSES. IT MEANS ALSO, THAT THE IMPECUNIOUS OPERATOR MUST PROVIDE SECURITY FOR THE FIRST DAMAGE SUIT FOR WHICH HE IS RESPONSIBLE OR SUF-FER THE CONSEQUENCE, WHICH AMOUNTS IN EFFECT TO A PRAC-TICAL FORM OF COMPULSORY INSURANCE. THIS IS ONE OF THE MOST DRASTIC AUTOMOBILE PROVISIONS IN EFFECT ANYWHERE,"
